Welcome mat spread here for Missouri developers

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Editor

Illinois and Missouri businessmen "are rapidly overcoming the things" that have divided us for 100 years. We must work together," John Kramer, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) told a group of 300 regional businessmen and executives at the Collinsville Hilton, Thursday afternoon.

Kramer praised the tremendous development potential in this area and said the area and its plans for the future were "sufficiently impressive to Governor (James) Thompson and the state of Illinois that IDOT in the next five years plans to invest more than $500 million in Madison and St. Clair counties alone (on highway projects)," Kramer said.

Kramer noted the state is investing in these counties because "there are few places in the United States that offer the advantages of this area." He noted that this area "has long been one of the leading transportation centers of the U.S. The aviation potential is great. By reinforcing our natural transportation leadership, we can make this a more attractive place to do business."

THE LUNCHEON talk by Kramer was among the activities of the day-long tour arranged by the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA) and the Southwest Illinois Leadership Council designed to acquaint leading Missouri developers, builders and financial officers with the development opportunities on the Illinois side of the river. The visitors were taken by bus to numerous locations in the two counties to look at sites available for development.

Among the stops were the Northgate Industrial Park on Route 1 and the Tri-City Regional Port District.

At the luncheon Kramer thanked the Missouri executives for taking a day to tour Madison and St. Clair counties and see the opportunities that exist for investment and development.

KRAMER SAID the state transportation department is ready and willing to tailor future transportation systems around the needs of major developers. "We would like nothing better than to be partners with you (Missouri developers) in realizing the tremendous potential of this area. We want to join with you in making this area one of the premier metropolitan areas in the U.S."

A question and answer session following secretary's talk was interrupted by a couple whose land is being purchased to make way for the new Interstate 255 project. Maggie Sparks alleged, "The state represents a thief and a liar. If you have so much money, why not give people money for their property?" she asked.

Kramer said no one's land is being taken. When the amount offered for the property is not acceptable to the owners "the courts will obviously have to determine the fair market value," he said.

MRS. SPARKS alleged that she was first told I-255 is necessary for highway safety and national defense and pointed out that Kramer was now attempting to use the new highway as an economic development tool instead. The Sparks own one acre of land that is being bought for the highway.

Her husband told the Missouri visitors that things were not proceeding as smoothly as Kramer told them and the I-255 project has been plagued by flooding and labor unrest to the point of "near riots." He also warned that there are pending lawsuits, any one of which could stop the project completely.

Mayor Paul Lenz of Alton stopped the interruption, telling Kramer, "We in the Alton area, both labor and the city, are very proud of what you and Dale Klorer (IDOT district engineer) are doing."

KRAMER THANKED him and concluded his remarks by saying, "We welcome development and we think it's awfully important."

Other speakers at the luncheon included James O'Flynn, president of the RCGA, who credited Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, its president, Earl Lazerson, and its development specialist Dr. Robert Koopke, for "pulling together the leadership and try to reach a consensus on the future of this area."

He also credited SIUE and the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council for helping arrange a day for Missouri executives to visit and "begin to create an awareness of the investment opportunities that exist today and certainly into the future."

O'FLYNN introduced Carl Mathias of Granite City, president of the leadership council, who has agreed to serve as the new chairman of the Bi-State Development Agency, saying Mathias has been a positive force in attempts to develop this area.

Mathias told the gathering, "We can't get very far with infighting and we're here to see that doesn't happen. We are here to show you that this is a good area for investment and growth."

I-255 ahead of schedule

Construction of the new Interstate 255 between Granite City and the Collinsville-Edwardsville area is up to a year ahead of schedule and being completed under budget, John Kramer, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation, said Thursday.

He noted that lack of a vehicle emissions testing program threatened to tie up federal funding and stop the I-255 project, but said the Illinois Senate Transportation Committee approved on a 7-0 vote earlier that day a bill to require mandatory emissions testing in Madison and St. Clair counties and the Chicago area. The bill now goes before the full Senate.

"THE ACTION reflects a shared concern in Springfield for the welfare of this area. Transportation is one area Illinois gets its fair share and we are not going to jeopardize that," Kramer said. Illinois now is getting back $1.65 of every $1 citizens pay in federal user fees, he said.

He noted that "in the very near future, $80 million of the $481 million Madison County road program will be spent. Approximately $300 million worth of work already is underway or under contract and part of the road has been opened. "I am happy to say the rest will open significantly ahead of schedule."

Kramer said the schedule has been advanced a full year for completion of the I-255 link between Collinsville and Interstate 64. "We anticipate it will open in the fall of 1985, if we draw further federal discretionary funds," he noted.

THE NEXT 17 miles to open should be in use this fall, he added.

The northern section to Edwardsville "is on the fastest possible timetable," he said. The I-255 bridge near the Jefferson Barracks Bridge is being constructed rapidly and "will help relieve the clutter of (traffic in the downtown (St. Louis) system. It should provide some immediate relief. We also would like to see some relief in the Poplar Street Bridge complex and are working on removing tolls and upgrading the Martin Luther King Bridge."

He also noted that a new bridge is planned at Alton to relieve traffic to the north. "We really want to attack that river crossing problem well into the 21st Century," he said.

CONSTRUCTION funds for this season have been assured, but the proposed Boston freeway system is "a problem," competing for the major funds in upcoming years, Kramer noted. "We hope to formulate a compromise in the interest of the whole country."

Kramer displayed a map of approximately 100 road projects planned for Madison and St. Clair counties, including lane additions on some major roads, widening and some bridge projects.

By BILL WINTER

of the Press-Record

Madison, St. Clair, Cook and Lake counties residents were targeted by an auto exhaust testing bill approved 7-0 Thursday by the Illinois Senate Transportation Committee.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency two days earlier had cut off federal highway aid to the Chicago and Metro East areas, subject to public hearings, unless car inspections are conducted as a way of curbing metropolitan area air pollution.

Because of the hearings, the fund cutoff cannot start until at least August. It would affect, among other projects, Alton Beltline and Interstate 255 construction.

AUTOS REGISTERED in designated counties would be subject to emission tests as of Jan. 1, 1986. More than three million vehicles would be affected.

The Illinois Environmental Council said the legislation is flawed because it would place enforcement responsibility on already busy municipal police, who would need to check for expired window stickers.

The Chicago Lung Association urged that the Illinois secretary of state be given jurisdiction.

A proposal to require statewide exhaust tests is awaiting action by a House committee and still another plan advanced in the House on Friday.

STATE REP. SAM WOLF of Granite City said Friday the U.S. is "holding a gun" on area counties in requiring auto inspections.

He and Rep. Monroe Flihn of Cahokia voted to advance a proposal related to Madison, St. Clair, Cook, Lake, DuPage and Kane counties.

The two committee actions bring the exhaust test issue to the Senate and House floor for passage or defeat.

If differing versions pass, a conference committee would write the final text for consideration and forwarding to the governor. He has said he would sign it.

Noting the progress of the legislation, Director Richard J. Carlson of the Illinois EPA said the federal sanctions are unwarranted. He commented, "We've already performed extensive studies of the various options for conducting the test program. We've drafted legislation to implement the best option, and it is

Venice not advised of rail dioxin test results

By VALERIE EVENEDEN

of the Press-Record

The Venice City Council has not received any results from a second series of tests conducted by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, which was seeking to determine the extent of hazardous chemicals sprayed in Venice rail yards.

Questions about the test results were raised by First Ward Alderman Philip Daniels at last week's council meeting. The alderman reported reading in the Press-Record that two lawsuits with major implications for several hundred railroad workers have been filed.

THE CLASS ACTION lawsuits, filed in St. Clair County Circuit Court, allege that numerous workers have been exposed to dioxin and other chemical substances in several railroad yards, including the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad's Venice yard.

The suits were filed against the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad Corp., Consolidated Rail Corp. (CONRAIL), Jerry Bliss and Russell Bliss, Inc., which allegedly sprayed contaminated oil on the rail yards to control dust since 1968 and as recently as April 16, 1983.

In addition to Venice and the piggyback yard, rail yards named as having been sprayed with the contaminated oil include the Roseale Yard in Fairmont City and a yard in East St. Louis.

THE TWO suits are on behalf of the hundreds of railroad workers who may have been exposed to the dioxin, PCBs, trichloroethylene and other chemicals in the contaminated oil in the three rail yards.

According to the copy of a report I had from the IEPA, the first tests on the surface of the yard did not reveal the presence of dioxin, Alderman Daniels stated to the council.

"But we know they did a second testing deeper into the ground, from which we've not had any reports," he contended.

CITY ATTORNEY Lawrence Hartman said the Illinois attorney general's office had agreed to send the results of any further testing to the city administration.

"The last report I got from them was about six or eight months ago and I've heard nothing since," he stated, adding that he will contact state authorities to get additional information.

Hospice Week honors volunteers

By SUSAN SIGNAGO-WEICH

of the Press-Record

Although the word death and the thought of dying might seem frightening to most people, there is at least one local organization that is not afraid to talk about the subject. The group, better known as Hospice of Madison County, is eager to do all that it can to help the terminally ill patient, and the patient's family as well.

"It's very important that people who need help emotionally or physically, know that the Hospice is there to help them," said Rosemarie Lindner-Brown, a member of the board of directors. Mr. Lindner-Brown and four other volunteers were interviewed concerning their involvement with the program.

HOSPICE IS A program of home care for persons with a life-threatening illness for whom the primary focus of care is control of symptoms. The primary goal of the program is to improve the quality of remaining life for both patient and family. Emphasis is placed on care of problems rather than on cure of the disease.

The goals of the program are accomplished by visits to the homes of the terminally ill by members of the

Record numbers seek scholarships

As a result of a record 307,092 applications being processed for the Monetary Award Program for the 1983-84 school year, the Illinois State Scholarship Commission is urging students to apply early for the upcoming school year. A total of $104 million was available for MAP grants in 1983-84 to 118,000 Illinois students.

The commission had a 16 percent increase in student loan applications over the same time period last year. As of the end of March, 139,970 had been received; so far, 33,000 students have applied for an MAP grant for the 1984-85 school year.

Continuing college students for 1984-85 have until June 1, 1984, to submit an application for consideration for the full academic year, while first-time college students have until Oct. 1.

Pre-evaluation study of courses, services

Gilbert Walsley, principal of Granite City High School, has announced the dates for a North Central Association evaluation. A visiting committee chaired by Dr. Raymond Love of Northern Illinois University will spend three days at GCHS evaluating every aspect of the school March 4-6, 1985.

The school evaluation by a team of professional educators is designed to study GCHS, locate areas of strength and weakness, and formulate plans for the school's improvement.

"This type of evaluation offers the best form of accountability; a professional judgment of how effectively the school currently is operating," Walsley commented.

In the preparation for the visit, GCHS has begun a self-study evaluation, an intensive process involving the entire staff in determining how well the schools' objectives are being met.

All aspects of the curricular program and student services will be appraised.

This procedure, which began with a workshop for the faculty on April 9 after school was dismissed early will take about six months.

In order to accomplish the self-study, each teacher will serve on at least one committee to examine a specific area of the school. The self-study process is being chaired by Mrs. Sonya Adkerson, coordinator of pupil personnel services.

CHARGE COLORADO MAN AFTER STATION INCIDENT

While sleeping in the lobby of the Granite City police station at 3:30 p.m. last week, Rodney M. Davis, 39, of Thornton, Colo., almost burned a chair with a cigarette, it was reported.

Upon being awakened, Davis allegedly became abusive and demanded a place to sleep, even if he had to go to jail, he was quoted as saying. The man was charged with disorderly conduct and was lodged.

Davis appeared in court the next day and pleaded guilty. He was ordered to pay a $75 fine by July.

She is the former clinical director in Minneapolis Family Renewal Center and holds a master's degree in social work from the University of Minnesota. Miss Ingelbritson's presentation at the May 11 conference will focus on the elements contributing to healthy family life and ways to straighten the family, with a view toward future families, especially blended and one-parent units.

The roles of parents and teachers in children's development will be discussed by Ivan Fitzwater in two morning sessions. His subject, "Turning Kids on to Success," will emphasize communication, touching, parent-child interaction and ways to improve children's success in school. ## Cashman, White to hear assessment, 2 misconduct issues

The stage is set for removal of Keith Jensen as special prosecutor of assessment matters in Madison County. But Circuit Judge Dennis Cashman of Quincy will conduct a hearing May 9 in Edwardsville to make sure everyone affected has had a chance to be heard.

State's Attorney Don W. Weber (represented by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith) and Circuit Judge P. J. O'Neill have agreed, after negotiations, to the idea of a new special prosecutor from outside the county. He is to be chosen by Cashman.

Jensen was a Weber assistant until March 27, the day before he was named to the special post. He did not take part in the negotiations.

Jensen has filed an affidavit alleging that Weber injected politics into the assessment case by telling Jensen to obtain indictments before the primary election and then on a day that a special grand jury investigation of Weber was to resume.

The special jury later indicted Weber for the alleged political pressure on his aide. It found insufficient merit in criticisms of Weber submitted by a St. Clair County lawyer. Weber and his wife are suing the lawyer, Amiel Cueto.

Cleared of everything except the conduct related to Jensen, which is yet to be adjudicated, Weber is continuing in office but handling administrative duties and assigning all prosecuting tasks to his assistants. The county investigation of assessment practices was launched in conjunction with probes by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation.

Judge Cashman is serving because of objections by Weber to St. Clair County Circuit Judge Stephen Kernan. Circuit Judge Howard L. White of Jerseyville has been assigned to preside in matters relating to the misconduct allegations against Weber. White has not yet set a hearing, but one of his first tasks is expected to be action of some sort on Weber's motion for dismissal.

Since the number of people attending the workshop must be limited, advanced registration is required. To make reservations, interested persons may call Linda Welle at 1-466-3411.

Founder of the Willaredt Oil Company is honored

Arthur L. Willaredt Sr. was recognized for his 50 years of service in the petroleum industry at an Illinois Petroleum Marketers convention at the Hyatt Regency in Chicago. He is a native of the Granite City area, where he was employed 11 years as a service station attendant and tank truck salesman.

In 1946, he moved to Mattoon as an agent for Shell Oil Co. Six years later, he became a jobber for Mobil Oil Co.

In 1952, the Willaredt Oil Co. was founded in Mattoon by A. L. Willaredt Sr. At that time, he served local farmers, households and one service station. Later, he established the M & W Propane Co.

In 1963, his son, Arthur Jr., joined the firm, which by then served farms, homes and industry in an area 25 miles in diameter around Mattoon, with three tank trucks and 12 service stations utilized.

In October 1970, he was featured in "Mobil Happenings," the national magazine of Mobil Oil, for his company's excellence in petroleum marketing.

In November 1972, the Willaredt Oil Co. changed the supplier for its distributorship to Sunoco products and continued to grow.

Today, after 50 years of challenges and many changes in the petroleum industry, Willaredt Sr., although retired, still enjoys providing his advice and experiences to his son, who is carrying on the Willaredt tradition of service to the community.

"I never regretted the long hours and hard work, but now it's time for more golf and travel," the founder comments.

He is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Kiwanis Club, is a past president of the Mattoon Gold and Country Club.

active in the Association of Commerce and a lifetime member of the Elks.

He has served on the board of directors of the Illinois Petroleum Marketers Association for eight years. He is on the board of directors of the Central National Bank and on the board of directors of Mattoon Estates, Inc.

Arthur Willaredt Sr. and his wife, Sadie, reside on Rural Route Three, Mattoon.

Youth riding dirt bike faces charges

After receiving complaints of someone riding a loud motorcycle up and down Ohio, Illinois and Bryan avenues at 2:30 a.m. last week, a police sergeant stopped a 16-year-old Granite City riding a dirt bike at West 23rd Street and Illinois Avenue.

The machine was not equipped for street use, the officers said, noting the bike was without lights, license and a mirror. It was towed from the scene.

Initially, the youth was charged with driving while his license was suspended, riding a motorcycle without eye protection, not having taillights, driving without a lighted lamp, not having a muffler and no valid registration.

At police headquarters, a check of the youth's record disclosed six convictions for traffic offenses in the last 12 months.

He also had 16 cannabis cigarettes in his jacket pocket, reports alleged.

The youth's mother was notified and he was held pending the filing of petitions in juvenile court on a state charge of unlawful possession of cannabis and a curfew violation.

Madison High gains accreditation again

Daniel S. Kostencik, principal of Madison High School, has announced that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1983-84 school year following the review and approval of its annual report at the association's annual meeting. Accreditation is for one year at a time and must be renewed annually.

Dr. John S. Kemp, NCA state director at the University of Illinois, congratulated Madison High School on its continued accreditation for 1983-84. He added, "The accreditation should be a matter of pride and satisfaction to the school and the community, for it provides assurance that the school meets those minimal, yet rigorous, preconditions for effective education established by the association. Through this voluntary membership in the NCA, the school and the people in the district have committed themselves to the pursuit of quality in education."

The North Central Association, which was founded in 1895, is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary organization of more than 5,300 schools and 900 colleges and universities in 19 states, plus the Department of Defense Dependent Schools throughout the world. A total of 631 schools is accredited in Illinois.

Accreditation by the North Central Association ensures that the school is meeting the minimal conditions for effectiveness. By setting standards for basic operations of the school and by requiring a comprehensive improvement. This is accountability in action.

Decentralization is the hallmark of American education. It has resulted in vigorous schools and great flexibility. Still there is a need for some thread of consistency and a common commitment to quality to integrate this rich educational diversity in the nation. By providing optional, voluntary, self-policed standards for the schools, regional accreditation achieves a large degree of quality control, yet does not forfeit that unique and invaluable feature — local governance of the school.

NCA accreditation helps build public confidence by providing evidence to the public as well as to other schools and educational institutions that the school is meeting expectations and fulfilling not only local standards, but also those more widely accepted throughout the state and the nation.

College scholarship data bank available

Thousands of unused college scholarships and loans exist for students who qualify. The students' problem is to find the specific ones for which they qualify.

Student College Aid, a nationwide computerized, scholarship locator service, suggests persons who earn less than $27,000 a year and do not know how to apply for college governmental aid send $3 for bulletin 100, "How to Apply for College Governmental Aid." Many families are eligible for financial aid, but do not seek it.

For those who earn too much to qualify for governmental aid or want to know what other awards are available, SCA has $500 million of nongovernmental awards in its data bank. They find scholarships and loans for which students should apply. Interested persons may send $3 for bulletin 200, "Non-governmental and Personalized Dataform."

Students fill the Dataform as completely as possible. Information such as college major, religious affiliation, club memberships and more is requested. This information is coded into SCA's computer. The computer searches through thousands of financial aid sources and prints out only those for which the student is eligible to apply. This printout is mailed to the student, who then contacts the funding sources.

Student College Aid guarantees to furnish at least five sources or to refund payment, along with those sources discovered. The average number of sources the students receive is 12, valued at $12,000. The fee for this service is $45.

SCA has two more services: "Graduate School Scholarship and Loan Locator Service," bulletin 250 for $3, which guarantees at least three sources for $49, and a service to help families earning between $27,000 and $60,000 qualify for college governmental funds they otherwise would not qualify for, bulletin 300 for $3.

Bulletins may be obtained by writing Student College Aid, 3641 Deal St., Houston, Tex. 77025.

New bid for Lake School is refused

The Granite City school district has turned down a new offer to utilize Lake Elementary School on East 23rd Street.

On March 27, the district indefinitely delayed action on a proposal to convert Lake into an educational and training center for 10- to 18-year-olds with behavioral disorders. The plan is sidelined unless the sponsoring group convinces nearby residents that the center would not create problems for the neighborhood.

The Board of Education last week agreed with Supt. B.J. Davis' recommendation that it reject a purchase offer, accompanied by a 10 percent down payment, from an unnamed company.

DAVIS SAID, "I have received an offer for Lake School along with a check for 10 percent of the amount offered. Since the bidding time has passed, I would recommend that we return the check and inform the company of our legal obligations on the sale of buildings."

"I do not believe it would be appropriate to reveal the amount of the bid, since it is possible that additional school buildings could be placed on sale in the future."

If it is decided later to seek offers on Lake, competitive bidding procedures will be decided on and announced to the public.

The district is present in retaining ownership of Lake, Nameoki and Logan schools although not scheduling classes in those buildings. It sold Washington, Emerson and Johnson schools this year to the Masco company, Nestle Co. Inc. and the Knights of Columbus, respectively.

GC man robbed at knife point

A Granite City man was robbed of his wallet by a knife-wielding assailant, the victim reported at 9:25 p.m. Saturday, after a caller advised police that a hold-up appeared to be taking place.

John M. Overturf of the 4900 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was walking north on Ridgedale Avenue, next to the 3600 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, when a man walking in the opposite direction said, "How are you doing?" and asked where he lived.

At that point, Overturf saw the man was holding a folding knife with a three-inch blade in his hand and pointing it at him, he told police. He tried to grab the weapon and a struggle ensued, with Overturf receiving a laceration to the right thumb.

During the skirmish, Overturf fell backward beneath the assailant who held the knife to the victim's throat and said, "Give me your wallet slow and easy. Don't make any crazy moves or I'll kill you," officers were informed.

The robber continued, "Now, empty your pants pockets." Overturf said he gave the attacker his wallet containing $7 and an undetermined amount of change from his pockets.

Spotting the knife at his victim, the robber got up, saying "You better not go anywhere or I'll kill you."

The man then fled through the alley between the 3600 block and 4000 block of the Kirkpatrick Homes and across the old cemetery grounds in the house complex with Overturf in pursuit.

Overturf lost sight of the man when he ran west in an alley in the 4000 block, between Hodges Avenue and Henry Street, he reported.

The robber was described as 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighing between 170 and 180 pounds, with neck-length blond hair. He was in his early 20's and wore a blue jean jacket and jeans, the victim said.

Crash on Route 3 injures 4 persons

Three young people from Granite City and an Alton man suffered injuries at 4 a.m. Saturday at Illinois Route 3 and West Pontoon Road. Three of those hurt were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

According to reports, the accident occurred when a car operated by Jeffrey S. Weeks, 18, of 2708 Edwards St., heading east on West Pontoon across Route 3, was broadsided as it crossed the highway by a northbound vehicle driven by Gary L. Sanders, 36, of Alton.

Passengers in the Weeks auto, who were injured and taken to the medical center, were Lori M. Bridick, 17, of 51 Lockhaven Drive, and Kathy Sue Koser, 17, of Rural Route Two Box 25.

Sanders, who apparently suffered a head injury, but was walking around, was taken to the accident scene, allegedly emitted a strong odor of alcohol. At the hospital, he agreed to take a blood alcohol test and was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, reports said. Sanders was admitted to SEMC for treatment.

Weeks also was injured, but was not listed on reports as going to the medical center. He was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way at a stop sign.

Six arrested in 'chop shop' case

Six people, five from the Collinsville and Caseyville areas, have been arrested in connection with an alleged truck theft and "chop shop" operation.

The arrests came following a four-month investigation, according to Sgt. Ken Easterley of the auto theft division of the Illinois secretary of state's office in East St. Louis.

A TOTAL OF 15 or 16 Ford pickups manufactured between 1975 and 1979 were believed stolen by the suspects last October. November and December, mostly from Madison County, according to Easterley. He said parts were allegedly removed from the vehicles at the farm of Joseph Waitukaitis on Pleasant Ridge Road in rural Collinsville, and were being sold throughout the Metro-East area.

Waitukaitis, 64, was among those arrested late last week. Others arrested were Thomas Finn Sr., 38, and Roger Finn, 24, of Caseyville; David Denninger, 26, and Stanley Cummings, 28, of Fairview Heights.

TIE SIXTH suspect, 18, of Collinsville, was already in custody in St. Clair County jail on an unrelated charge, Easterley said. Charges against him were to be filed.

All but Roger Finn were charged with three counts of vehicle theft and three counts of vehicle theft conspiracy; the younger Finn was charged with one count each of vehicle theft and conspiracy. His bond was set at $10,000; bond and the other suspects was set at $50,000. EASTERLEY SAID other people were still being interviewed but he doubted there would be additional charges filed in connection with this alleged operation.

Easterley said the Fords were apparently chosen because those were good years for the pickups and there was a good market for the parts.

Venice Township gives away leftover cheese

Venice Township will conduct a free commodities giveaway at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, May 8, at Engelbert Hall, Tenth Street and Washington Avenue, Madison. Township officials say they have 65 cases of cheese and four cases of butter left from the commodities distribution last week.

Residents of Venice Township should bring some form of identification with them other than a driver's license. The commodities will be given on a first-come, first-served basis.

DUI IS CHARGED
Susan R. King, 20, of Granite City, was charged by the Illinois State Police with driving under the influence of alcohol. She was stopped by police at 2:30 a.m. last week at the eastbound two-mile pole on Interstate 55-70.

Mayor Echols urges city decal purchase

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

"Get your stickers while they are cheap," Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols advised citizens at last week's city council session.

"I will order the police to vigorously write tickets, so if you get caught in it, don't call me. Remember, they will go from $3 to $5 to $50," he emphasized.

The mayor was referring to the Venice city vehicle stickers now on sale through May 31 at the office of City Comptroller Roseann Koelker in the Venice City Hall during regular business hours.

The stickers cost $3 each and each vehicle is required to have one displayed on its windshield.

After May 31, the price of stickers increases to $5 and residents cited for lack of a decal are subject to a $50 fine.

Also at the council session, Police Chief Harris Smith reported a total of $3,495 was returned to the city by Willard Portell, clerk of the Circuit Court, for fines collected during the month of March.

Eleven women and 78 men were arrested during March, including three persons on felony charges, 68 persons cited for city and state traffic violations, 11 for city ordinance violations and 16 for state ordinance violations.

Two warrants also were served and two juveniles were taken into custody, the chief reported.

In other business, Mayor Echols advised the aldermen he has put in a request for various equipment, including tables and chairs, for the new senior citizens' center, now nearing completion at Klein and Brown streets.

First Ward Alderman Philip Daniels reported receiving several complaints from residents who are concerned about excessive smoke coming into the ward from Kerr Island. The situation is further aggravated when the wind is blowing, he said.

"There is enough fire down there to really cause problems," he said, and suggested that burning should be restricted to calm days or would be greatly appreciated," he added.

The alderman also asked that the railroad be requested to oil the access roads as soon as possible, especially on the west side of Main Street. He noted the railroad recently oiled its main Venice rail yard.

McPile on 1992 CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR PANEL

Illinois House Majority Leader Jim McPile of Alton was appointed during the weekend to the Technical Advisory Task Force to develop a plan to fund the 1992 Chicago World's Fair, expansion of McCormick Place and statewide tourism activities.

John D. Kramer heads the Task Force, which will make its initial report in June. Secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation and chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, Kramer helped negotiate an intergovernmental agreement that allocated costs and responsibilities for the fair among the City of Chicago, State of Illinois and World's Fair Authority.

The task force grew out of an April 6 conference convened by the governor to lay the groundwork for the fair.

Honor teacher; she, 15 others rehired in GC

Granite City schools on Tuesday night honored Mrs. Stella R. Davenport as a master teacher—and then gave her a second reward by rehiring her for 1984-85.

The Marshall School upper primary teacher was one of those on the honorable dismissal list March 27. She now has been employed for the next year, in an elementary position yet to be assigned.

Mrs. Davenport was chosen by the Madison County Selection Committee as a recipient of the state's Master Teacher award. A framed certificate taking note of the designation was presented to her by President David Portney on behalf of the Board of Education at its meeting last week.

The teacher thanked the board, staff, Principal Alfred J. Wilson, teachers, parents and students.

Furness, of the Emerson School faculty, she said that, both there and at Marshall, she has been given freedom to develop her instructional program and teaching style.

Mrs. Davenport said there are numerous "talented, dedicated, caring, hard-working teachers in our school system."

She encouraged the board to continue emphasizing high educational quality.

Also rehired for 1984-85 on Tuesday night for unspecified elementary assignments were:

William L. Harris, who is a Frohardt middle intermediate teacher; Marjorie A. Schmidt, Parkway middle primary; Sue C. Grable, Niedringhaus middle primary; Brenda J. Keene, Maryville kindergarten; John R. Svoboda, Parkway middle intermediate; Ellen J. Voyles, Webster School learning center; Jacob Varadian, Frohardt lower intermediate; Sandra S. DeMoulin, Wilson middle primary; Barbara J. Varadian, Niedringhaus kindergarten; and Nancy R. Orris, who is a Frohardt kindergarten teacher.

The board also this week rehired five teachers who were among those honorably dismissed a year ago:

Judith L. Collins, an elementary physical education teacher; Allen Lobdell, a former Coolidge Junior High mathematics teacher who will teach physics at Granite City High School; Jean M. Nelson, a high school home economics instructor; Judith K. Sparks, a former North High business education teacher who will teach at GCIS; and Francis W. Robbers, a former North High nurse who will be the Grigsby Junior High nurse.

Roger L. Smith is continuing as a GCIS physical education teacher but is resigning (after the 1983-84 school year) from his extracurricular assignment as assistant athletic director.

Stephany T. Corona, honorably dismissed as an upper primary teacher a year ago after 12 years of service, resigned effective April 14. She is teaching in the Pattonville school district.

Leaves of absence were granted to: John W. Webb, custodian at the board office, May 1 to May 15 due to personal illness; and James M. Aye, GCIS Spanish and history teacher, a leave extension for the 1984-85 school year due to personal illness.

Testing

moving through the legislature as expected.

MEANWHILE, the House Judiciary Committee gave its approval Thursday to legislation allowing out-of-state workers to file personal injury lawsuits against railroads or barge lines that operate in Illinois.

The Illinois Supreme Court has been seeking to discourage a pattern of numerous injury suits being filed and tried in Madison and St. Clair counties.

The "venue shopping" vs. "convenient forum" issue involves the presence of many active, high-earning lawyers in this region and the tendency of juries here to award large damage payments.

IN LEGISLATIVE action on a third matter, the House Transportation Committee passed 9-5 Friday a measure to repeal the law that requires closing of auto dealerships on Sundays.

The House Judiciary Committee voted 12-6 Friday to require court clerks to record the sex and race of all potential jurors.

It contended that lawyers eliminate many minority jurors by using peremptory challenges.

The proposed law might make it easier for minorities to establish in an appeal that there was discrimination in a lower court.

VICTIMS OF VIOLENT crime were the topic of the Senate Judiciary Committee last week. It approved a bill allowing such victims to make an "impact statement" to the court at sentencing hearings.

The Senate Finance Committee okayed a plan to loan state lottery proceeds to some homeowners facing mortgage foreclosure.

Senators' Executive Committee adopted a pay hike schedule that would increase the Madison County state's attorney from the present $50,500 to $65,500 yearly.

LEGISLATORS' PAY would move from $28,000 to $32,000 next year, followed by $2,000 annual raises through 1988.

The full Illinois Senate gave 36-14 approval to a public vote on a new state constitutional amendment that would make it harder for the General Assembly to enact laws imposing added costs on local governments.

And a House committee agreed to require dual referendum approval for annexations by co-terminous city townships like Granite City and Alton. The Illinois Municipal League failed in its effort to defeat the proposal.

WINS $25,000 HERE

DAMAGES CAR WITH BRICK

A vandal threw a brick, breaking the windshield and otherwise damaging a 1978 Mustang owned by William C. Fisk, 2728 National Ave., he reported at 11:15 p.m. Friday. The vehicle was parked on the street outside his home, Fisk said.

Some legal rules for home buying

The question often arises as to what duty the seller of a home owes to a potential buyer with regard to disclosing defects in the home. Let's take the example of a home which has a leaky roof. One can envision several possible situations here. For instance, the seller may be aware of the defect but feel it has been repaired, or the seller may be aware of the defect and realize that it still exists.

If the seller of a home is aware of a defect in the premises but fails to disclose it to the buyer, the buyer can in turn bring an action against the seller for fraud. Fraud involves an intent to deceive or a plan or scheme to practice deception. The more difficult case exists where the seller is aware of a former defect but feels it has been remedied. Here the courts would generally say that if there was no intent to deceive, the buyer cannot recover any damages even though the buyer obviously would have added expense of repairing the roof.

One must also ask what the duty of a real estate agent who shows the home is in this situation. Some courts make a distinction between the real estate agent and the seller. Certainly the agent has no duty to discover hidden defects in a home and disclose them to the buyer. However, once a real estate agent is aware of defects, he has a duty to disclose those to the potential buyer.

Law
and you

By Rick Reed
Attorney at Law

A recent case in Illinois involved a buyer who stood in water in the basement prior to purchasing the home and then brought an action based on fraud against the seller and the real estate agent. Needless to say, if the potential buyer is aware of the defects and chooses to purchase the home anyway, there is no cause of action under Illinois law. The best course of action for a buyer to take when purchasing a home is to view the premises extensively himself and also to ask numerous questions both of the real estate agent and the seller. One should also attempt to get written assurances in the contract itself that no defects exist in the home.

Hospice

Hospice staff. Staff members include professional volunteers such as nurses, and clergy. Non-professional volunteers also help by providing light housekeeping, transportation or companionship.

ONE SUCH volunteer is Marie Robins of Granite City, who has been with the local program for almost a year. "I am assigned to a Hospice patient and my job is to go into the home and do whatever I can to make the patient comfortable — whether it be giving baths or just holding his or her hand," she said. "I find it rewarding because I can help make it possible for the patient to stay at home, in familiar surroundings."

Another local volunteer, Roy McGee of Granite City, has more of a management type position with the organization. "I interview prospective volunteers for the program and decide if these people are sincerely interested in helping others if they have enough time available to give," he said.

"I started with the program when it was first formed in Madison County in 1979. I thought it sounded like wonderful way to help others. But the really wonderful part of the program is that it helps me too."

"I THINK that the program has made me more aware of the inevitability of death, but I'm not afraid. I feel I'm better qualified to handle a situation involving death now."

Mark Kapilla, a staff nurse with the program, said his experiences as a nurse made him acutely aware of the need for a program such as Hospice. "As a nurse, I saw many terminal patients being hospitalized who could have lived their last days at home. If they just had a little help. It's so much better to allow them to be at home with their families."

Kapilla said it is his strong religious conviction that allows him to "handle" the emotional strain of his job. "It only bothers me to see people die if they don't know that Jesus Christ is their savior."

"I LOVE MY job because I am helping these people to enjoy their last days. By controlling their pain with drugs, we are able to take the focus of their life off pain and put the focus onto enjoying life."

Mrs. Lindner-Brown said that, although dealing with the patients might not be something everyone can do, she said anyone who is willing to help can find a place in the program. "We have a couple working in the program who run errands for the families because the wife just wasn't able to handle a one-to-one confrontation with the patients. But the important thing is that the couple is helping — they are doing a real service to the families."

Mrs. Lindner-Brown said she became involved in the program because she lost five people to cancer in three years. "I didn't know what I could do, but I knew I had to do something. So I saw a note about a Hospice group meeting and I said Hospice, what is that? But I went to the meeting and it really helped me. I think anyone needing help shouldn't be afraid to admit it."

volunteer who became interested in the program because of cancer deaths in her family is Julia Courtois of Venice. Mrs. Courtois works as a nurse in the oncology unit when she isn't volunteering for Hospice. "I have always had an interest in cancer patients, but my work with Hospice has been the most fulfilling of all," she said. "It may sound strange, but a volunteer can really benefit from the program more than the patient can."

"To me it's a real success story when a patient gets to die at home — when they get their wish. Hospice also allows family members to get really close to the patient again."

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Lindner-Brown, Hospice's involvement does not end with the patient's death. "I call on families — sometimes up to a year later — just to make sure everything is okay," she said. Hospice also has a social group called Lost and Found, which takes single partners to dinner parties, theater groups and weekend trips.

Hospice is a community-based, not-for-profit agency. It is supported by St. Elizabeth Medical Center, grants, private donations and third-party reimbursements.

For more information about Hospice, interested persons may call 798-3399.

IBHE works with SIUE to meet needs of the region

The Illinois Board of Higher Education, meeting Tuesday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, was reminded of the team effort required by the university and the board to meet the unique needs of higher education in the Southwestern Illinois region.

President Earl Lazerson, in welcoming the board to the SIUE campus, said, "Working together, we will keep the doors of education open and provide those opportunities essential for social programs in Illinois."

THE PRESIDENT pointed to the university's mandate, as stated in the IBHE's Master Plan, Phase IV, which says in part, "SIUE should develop programs in instruction, research and public service that are consonant with its being the major educational institution in urban-industrial metro-east Illinois, the second most populous region in the state. Program development should be based on a sensitivity to regional needs and on the prudent use of available resources. The university should be committed to an improvement of the quality of life in the metro-east region through programs directly related to societal needs, such as health care, social services, environmental protection, and continuing education."

President Lazerson emphasized that he believes the university is fulfilling that mandate.

Turning to the future, the president said, "Above all else, we were founded to provide educational opportunities for those whom the traditional university did not serve. We must continue to deepen our appreciation of that task; for the place bound; for those with limited means; for the commuter student; for the single parent; for the practicing professional; for the part-time student; for all of these we must offer accessible, affordable, and comprehensive educational programs and services."

HE ADDED, "And in doing so, we must never turn away from those community needs to which our skills and resources can contribute."

Continuing, President Lazerson said: "SIUE is a unique regional institution. We are proud of that and draw vital strength from the area we serve. As the stewards of Illinois higher education, you have shown great wisdom in demanding superior performance from each of the institutions and sectors of higher education while remaining sensitive to their diversity and uniqueness."

The IBHE meeting marked the first time the group had met on the SIUE campus since 1977. President Lazerson reviewed the history of the institution since its inception in 1957 and pointed to the "explosive growth" of the university as evidence that it was meeting needs "long unmet." Enrollment in the last three years has stabilized at about 11,000, and instructional unit costs have been brought into an acceptable range in comparison with the state average for public universities.

THE UNIVERSITY, one of two in the SIU System, has 10 academic schools and offers a wide range of baccalaureate and graduate degrees, as well as several professional degrees and a Doctorate of Education in Instructional Technology. In addition to the Edwardsville campus, the School of Dental Medicine is located in Alton, and the university has an active center in East St. Louis. Nursing outreach programs are offered at Marion and Mount Vernon, and the off-campus Master of Business Administration program is available at eight Military Airlift Command bases.

President Lazerson reviewed SIUE demographics, pointing out that over 80 percent of the university's students come from the 14 counties of Southwestern Illinois, and about seven percent live in the Missouri portion of the St. Louis metropolitan area. Faculty and staff engage in a variety of research and public service programs, and two years ago, SIUE initiated the Southwestern Illinois School Project, a cooperative venture in school improvement involving local schools, the State Board of Education, and the university.

The president also cited the leading role which has been taken by the university's Office of Area Development in creating local economic development organizations and supporting the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council, composed of labor leaders and business executives, which in concert with the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, is attempting to stimulate business and industrial growth throughout the area.

FOLLOWING the formal meeting in the University Center, the Board was scheduled to tour the university's new multipurpose building, the Sam M. Vandalene Center for Health, Recreation and Physical Education. A formal dedication of the $12.5-million building was held today at 11 a.m., with remarks by Gov. James Thompson.

NOT WHILE I'M WATCHING. Sara Coppeller of Lake Bluff can't look as Cindy Dorich of Granite City prepares to start an IV on the "patient" in a nursing class at Southern Illinois University

Africa's varied animals, birds seen by Schweizers

Col. and Mrs. Charles Schweizer were pleased with the food and lodging during a 17-day Africa tour that included a safari in Kenya, they told Travelers Abroad at a late-April meeting in Prather School.

President Walter Klein welcomed 35 guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cunningham, who have traveled in China and Europe, and Miss Ruth Stoyanoff, who worked in Iran for 18 months.

Program Vice-President Marguerite Barker introduced the speakers, who are active in Friends of the Zoo and the study of genealogy.

Col. Schweizer was St. Louis district engineer, commanding officer of the Granite City Army Depot and executive director of the SIUE Foundation before retiring. He is an authority on the Eads Bridge.

Slides highlighted African birds and animals seen by 36 persons, who included two St. Louis Zoo staff members.

After a one-day stay in London, where the Schweizers saw the changing of the guard, a nine-hour flight ended in modern Nairobi, a city of one million people. A day of shopping eased "jet lag" prior to the safari.

Mrs. Schweizer displayed a necklace worn by tribal women and showed her photo scrapbook and the book, "The Marsh Lions" by Jackman and Scott. The book is special to the Schweizers because they met the man who took its photographs.

Their first night in Africa was spent at the Intercontinental Hotel. Scenes included office buildings, a Hilton hotel, trees with orchid blossoms and the Kenyatta Cultural Center with its tower. Kenyatta served as Kenya's leader from the time of independence in 1963 until his death in 1978.

As noted, food was bountiful. Breakfasts offered variety, lunches usually were cold buffets featuring salads of all kinds, and dinners were hot buffets with several meats.

Six-person minibuses offered all a window view and room to stand to get a better perspective for photos. The travel agency courier and bus drivers were knowledgeable and the bus groups were determined by the travelers' major interests.

On the way to Tsavo, they saw a mother and baby giraffe, a spring, a shop that sold carvings and a Maasai village with huts in a circle and a fence of thorn bushes to keep animals out at night.

The tall natives were friendly but have been known to throw a spear at persons trying to photograph them without paying their fee. Spears were sold at negotiated prices.

Elephants roamed Tsavo National Park, unafraid of the minibus and not a danger to those who remained inside the vehicles.

Each cottage at Kiliguni Lodge in the park had a small back porch with mosquito netting. Mountains were visible and zebras came to drink water. There were weaver birds, blue starlings and even blue lizards. The local couple saw 127 different kinds of birds before returning to the U.S.

Warthogs, lions and ostriches were noted on the trip south to Amboseli Park Buffalo Lodge, where two-room huts had fireplaces complete with couches.

At Mount Kilimanjaro were bee hives in trees and also wildebeasts, which along with other animals migrate to water sources. Cheesecake is becoming scarce but the group saw larger numbers of grey herons and rhinos. Coca-Cola was available at many points but the bottles were precious and had to be left after the drink was consumed.

Coffee plantations and Aberdare National Park were visited. At the Arc, which afforded a view of African buffalo at a stream, guests could be awakened at their request by a buzzer in the middle of the night to see a special bird or animal that had happened to come near.

Despite crossing the Equator, the travelers found most mornings and evenings cool. At the River Lodge in the Samburu Game Reserve, a swimming pool was separated by a rock wall from a river frequented by 15-foot-long crocodiles. Flowers were everywhere.

Turkana warriors danced in a makeshift theater. A tape was played at Prather of the music they created. Baboons were seen and there were umbrella-like trees whose top was eaten by giraffes while other animals fed on the lower part.

Lions fed on anything they could kill, including zebras. The Mount Kenya Safari Club, with William Holden's African learning center, had bungalows, English lawn bowling and dinners requiring coats and ties. Robertson Falls impressed the group.

Mrs. Schweizer's desire to go camping was fulfilled at Lion Hill Camp, where they stayed in tents with solid roofs. Thousands of flamingos were

Methodist congregations celebrate 145 years of service

Two Methodist congregations became one with the closing in November 1982 of the First United Methodist Church in Venice, and both churches celebrated anniversaries on April 28-29 at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 3025 National Ave., attended by Methodist dignitaries and former pastors.

A cantata entitled, "Jesus of Nazareth" by Van Trapp and Tom Fette, was presented by the Sanctuary Choir to open the observance on Saturday night.

Ed Kostick served as narrator and the Rev. John D. Read, host pastor, directed the choir that included Sandy Stover, Jennifer Cavaness, Laura Read, Linda Smart, Jackie Wakeford, Louise Jones, Millie Stomum, Emma Portell, Virginia Rainwater, Barbara Hesseldenz, Jan Cavaness, Ruth Marcum, Jody Little, Bill Hesseldenz, Ray Long, Ed Kostick, Mary Layton and Bob Little.

A program of religious songs was presented during the opening observance.

The celebration of faith shaped in the past shared in the present, and hoped for in the future, began with a congregational breakfast at 8 a.m. on Sunday followed at 9 a.m. by a time for reflection upon history of both churches and taking pictures. Rev. Read officiated at the 10 a.m. service assisted by Edna Vaughn, organist, Katie Walters, pianist.

Millie Stomum, song leader, and the choir members.

Recognition certificates for loyalty and services for 50 years were presented to Venice members, Magdalena Smith, Marion Cunningham, Margaret Brooks, Grace Grimes and Naomi Hoelling; 25-year members of Venice church, Georgia Burns, Sophia Mezger and Mavis DeWitt, and 25-year members of Good Shepherd Church, Jim and Wanda Sherman, Marceline Dawdy, Barbara Hesseldenz, Harold and Katie Walters, Millie Stomum, Mary Layton, Gary and Virginia Rainwater.

Willis Stover, chairman of the administrative council, presented the paid mortgage for the church and the Rev. Dr. Donald Lowe, superintendent of the East St. Louis District, burned the paper.

Acknowledging the ceremony was the Rev. Read, Pastor Bill Bryan, the first minister of the church, The Rev. Dr. F. Landis, the first district superintendent, and former superintendent of Decatur District of Illinois Conference of Evangelical United Brethren Church at the time the property was purchased, now retired, and the Rev. Paul Prater, the Rev. Gary Portell and the Rev. Gene Maritt.

Services and a potluck dinner continued throughout the day to mark the 25th anniversary of Good Shepherd and the 120th anniversary of the Venice United Methodist Church.

Visiting pastors and their families attending were, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Bill Bryan and family, the Rev. and Mrs. Gene Maritt, the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Kelley, also former pastor of the Venice Church and Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church, and the Rev. and Mrs. Prater, Amy Lee and Steve.

Arrangements of red and white silk floral bouquets decorated the sanctuary and tables in the fellowship hall were centered with clusters of silk spring flowers.

A history of the Venice church was reviewed noting the first Methodist Church there was organized in 1863 by the Rev. Asa Snell and the building was erected in 1875, known as the Union Methodist Church, situated on the Old Rock Road, now known as Broadway.

The Union Methodist Church drew its membership from the town's people and farmers in the immediate vicinity. The church building burned during 1880. A new edifice was built on the same site and was a one room frame building with a tall steeple.

During the year of 1882 there was a flood, and the church building was covered by water for five weeks and severely damaged. On Sunday, June 7, 1893, another levee broke at the Merchants Bridge and the full force of the water struck the church and carried the building several blocks. The church was wrecked beyond repair and the only thing salvaged was the steeple bell which had been cast in 1887.

The cornerstone for the new building was laid in 1905 and was completed at a cost of $4,000 and the mortgage burned at the dedication, on Easter Sunday, 1906.

On May 10, 1940, the name was changed to First Methodist Church of Venice and on Sunday morning, Feb. 22, 1948, the congregation was besieged with another fire and within an hour the church was completely destroyed. Dedication service for the new building was held March 21, 1954.

Not much history is documented after this point and during the last 15 years the church went through a declining membership trend. Five years ago the church became yoked with Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church and shared one pastor.

Good Shepherd Evangelical United Brethren Church began in 1938 with the Rev. and Mrs. Billy Bryan and family and five other people who met in the basement of the parsonage on Aug. 1938.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held July 19, 1959, and a cornerstone laying service was on Dec. 13, 1959, at 3025 National Ave. Dedication was on March 6, 1960. Total cost of the building and parking lot and equipment was set at $44,500.

In 1968 the Evangelical United Brethren Church merged with the Methodist Church and became Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

On Nov. 1, 1982, the First United Methodist Church of Venice and Good Shepherd UMC of Granite City were merged at a special church conference conducted by the Rev. Dr. Lowe.

There were 42 ministers who served the Venice church and eight who have been pastors at Good Shepherd. Rev. Read delivered his first sermon on Sept. 22, 1980, and will leave Good Shepherd on June 12, 1984, to become chaplain in the U.S. Army.

In Saturday's Twinbill Warriors hurlers split with Centralia Orphans

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

It has been a brutal high school baseball season, with many rain delays and cancelled games here in southwestern Illinois.

Saturday afternoon at the Granite City High School's varsity field on the Fehling Road curve, Coach Bob Stegemeier and his Warriors split a double-header, 1-2 and 9-1, with the Centralia High Orphans.

The opening game, a one-run loss by the Warriors to Centralia, was enough to drive Stegemeier up the walls, and dropped Granite City's won-loss record to 6-12, while Centralia, coached by Dick Carpenter, upped its record to even 7-7.

The Warriors, it must be said, didn't get a single break in the first game and was the victim of numerous outlandish plays seldom, if ever, seen on a baseball diamond. It was a game, really, that Granite City, with any breaks at all, could have won by as much as five or more runs.

Take this little bit of comedy routine: in the second frame of the first game, the Warriors had a chance to really bust the game wide open. After one out, catcher Jim Moulden singled to right, Greg Ehlers singled down the same line and, after the bases were loaded when Terry Jurawitz was safe on the Orphans' shortstop's error scoring Moulden, Scott Grote hit into the oddest double-play of this or any other season.

Grote blasted a 3-and-2 pitch back to the Centralia pitcher on the mound and Ehlers was caught attempting to score, for the second out of first and the visitors' catcher, Rod Barrow, pegged behind the runner and the double-play was completed.

Coach Stegemeier was just a little bit annoyed, to say the least. But, really, it was one of those things that can only happen in baseball.

But, topping that for bad breaks for the Warriors was the bizarre fielding gem pulled off by Centralia in the bottom of the Granite City's third frame. With two outs and the score tied 1-1, Granite City's second baseman, Randy Thurman, drew a walk. Gerry Booker, next up, also was walked.

Next up for Granite City was the Warriors' top pitcher, Randy Burgess, with an astronomical 530 batting average at that time and in the lineup as his team's designated hitter. Jay Brannon, ace of the Centralia mound staff, knowing Burgess' hitting skill, pitched carefully to Burgess and fell behind 2-0. On the third pitch, however, Burgess brutalized the pitch on the infield straight for the hole between third and shortstop.

It was clearly a hit, but the Centralia third baseman, Kevin Breeze, in desperation, stuck out his left foot kicking the ball and, man alive, it ended up in the glove of the visitor's second baseman, Rod Thomas, for the final out.

In other words, Breeze "boots," yes, kicks the ball which, without the force-out at second would have been a hit, into the hands of the second baseman.

Going into the second game, Stegemeier called on four of his brilliant crop of players from sophomores championship squad and they turned the trick for him.

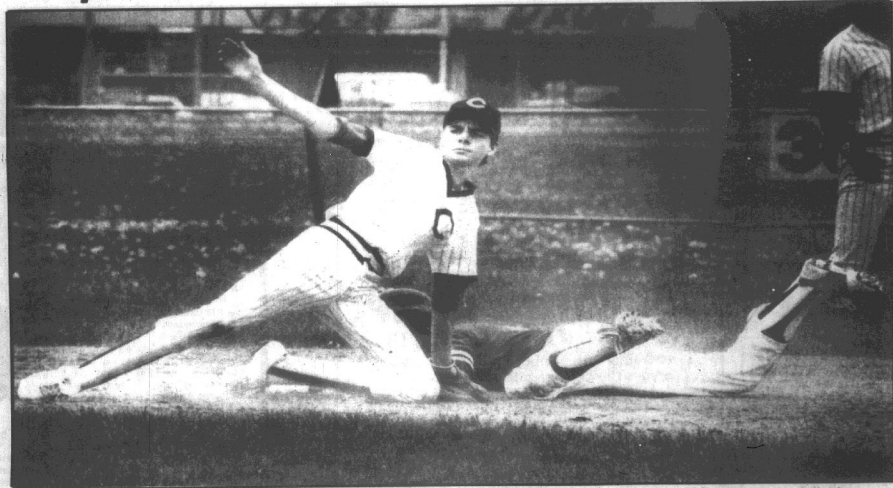

On the mound, it was right-hander Eric Gray, who was simply sensational as he fanned four and walked none. And, after retiring the first two hitters in the second frame, he appeared to have a little attack of nerves and gave up two consecutive hits as the Orphans scored their only run.

Thereafter, the slender Gray was in almost complete control. Says Stegemeier: "He's going to be a great one; did you see his almost icy poise on the mound all through the game?"

The other sophomores who turned in great outings in the victory were: Billy Moore at third, Steve Davis at shortstop and Dennis Gaudreault at second base.

In the leadoff inning in the nightcap, Moore delivered a blistering triple to right scoring senior Tom Adamitis who had singled. Moore led off the Warriors' final inning with a single, Gaudreault's second inning three-bagger scored Granite City's leadoff man, Shane Cole, who had gotten his first of two walks of the game.

Granite's designated hitter, Pat Cathey, delivered the winners' big blow, a triple, in the Warriors' big four-run fifth inning. Davis led off with a double. Then, following a walk to Greg Goble, catcher Derek Merz singled home both Cathey and Goble. And, after an error had advanced Merz to third, Adamitis, who went two-for-three in the nightcap, sacrificed Merz home with the Warriors' final and ninth run.

Gray allowed only one infield hit from the third until the seventh. And, he retired 10-in-a-row at one stretch.

In Baseball Action Trojans blow 4-0 lead; Pioneers win

By CHARLIE SKAER
of the Press-Record

MADISON — The Madison Trojans won the battle for hits but lost the war for runs Thursday, dropping a 14-4 contest to the Assumption Pioneers.

The Trojans collected six hits in the contest, compared to just three for Assumption. Madison also started out to a strong 4-0 lead after the first inning.

But Madison's defense and pitching proved erratic, giving up seven errors and 16 walks.

"That's been our problem all year — pitching and fielding," said head coach Ron Crader. "It's the second time we've blown a 4-0 lead."

NOT OFF a 2-1 win two days earlier against Lincoln, the Trojan defense put down the sides in order during the first stanza with some solid pitching from Fred Smith. Madison's offense then went to work with a lead-off double by Smith and a single by first baseman John Jackson.

Nathan Young made it to first courtesy of an error by Assumption's third baseman Keith Hannah, leading the bases. Assumption pitcher Werner Martin got into more trouble, throwing a wild pitch to allow Smith to cross the plate and then walking catcher John Bravley to load the bases again.

move didn't seem to help, as Collins walked outfielder Chris Noud and gave up a double to third baseman Mark Succarrotte to put the score at 4-0.

But the second inning showed what Madison had in store for the rest of the game: too many walks and too many errors. Assumption collected three runs in the second, despite failing to get a hit. Smith gave up four walks and three wild pitches, while catcher Bravley made a throwing error.

ASSUMPTION tied the game in the third, with another four walks by Smith. But the fourth inning proved to be the fatal point, when Assumption pitcher Collins smacked a long fly in right that outfielder Noud didn't reach until Collins was rounding third and on his way for home.

The inside-the-park home run drove in three runs for the Pioneers, who collected two more runs in the inning to put the score at 9-4.

"Collins is a well-rounded athlete," said Monken, explaining that the sophomore plays football, basketball and baseball at Assumption. "He gives it his best."

The home run was Assumption's lone hit of the fourth, as they received three walks from Smith. Shortstop Darnell Marshall and catcher Bravley both committed errors, helping Assumption's scoring drive.

MEANWHILE, Madison's bats had fallen silent. While getting three hits in the first, Madison managed just three more in the next six innings. Outfielder Young hit a double to right in the second inning, Marshall knocked a double to left in the fourth inning and Noud hit a single in the fifth.

Assumption, meanwhile, managed to get five more runs on only two hits to put the score at 14-4.

Collins was the winning pitcher, while Smith was tagged with the loss. Assumption improved their record to 4-9, while Madison fell to 2-11.

"We probably have the two worst records in the area," said Assumption coach Monken. "But I don't feel we have that bad of a team. Our biggest problem is pitching. We only have two solid pitchers, which hurts. They don't get that much rest."

As for Madison, coach Crader feels improvement is coming.

"We've got to improve," said Crader. "There's no other way to go."

Lose To Mascoutah, ES1L

Warriors bow out of Cahokia Invitational

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

CAHOKIA — After dropping a not-surprising 12-2 loss to fourth-seeded Mascoutah on Friday in the first round of the Cahokia Invitational, the Granite City Warrior girls' softball team dropped their second game of the tournament Saturday by the score of 9-4 to East St. Louis Senior, a team which had not won a game all season.

"We just didn't get the job done," said Warrior coach Jim Davis. "You have to score more than four runs to beat a team that hasn't won a game."

One thing that may have had a negative impact on the Warrior's performance on Saturday was Friday night's storm. Five Warrior starters were absent from Friday's contest because of the event.

ALTHOUGH Coach Davis would not use the storm as a reason for his team's poor performance he did say it had affected his players.

"We just didn't have it today," said Davis. "A lot of the girls were tired and we didn't do much to wake them up. I think we had six errors in the first two innings. That's no excuse though, we just got beat."

Errors plagued both teams in the early innings. However, unfortunately for the Warriors, the Flyerettes did a better job of capitalizing on the other team's miscues.

EAST SIDE opened the scoring in the bottom of the first when they scored two runs on no hits. Two walks and a Warrior error accounted for both runs.

The Warriors tied the score in the top of the second. Monica Fanning got the inning started with a walk from Flyerette pitcher Maureen Hughes. Jill Werthe reached on an error that sent Fanning to third.

Warrior starting pitcher Michelle Morgan helped herself out with a sacrifice bunt that scored Fanning. Werthe then scored on a wild pitch.

The Flyerettes regained their lead in the bottom of the inning as they put together three hits with a Warrior error to add one run.

THE WARRIORS bounced back again in the top of the third to tie the score. A bases loaded walk to Anne Puhse scored the tying run as Kim Mushill, who had earlier singled, crossed the plate.

The Flyerettes broke the game open in the bottom of the third as they scored four runs on just two hits.

Errors again cost the Warriors in the third as they should have gotten out of the inning without any runs being scored. The first three Flyerette batters reached on errors. All three came around to score.

The Flyerettes continued to score runs in every inning, but the Warriors failed to score again until the top of the sixth when East Side already had a 9-3 lead.

KEBI Holtkamp lead off the inning with a walk for the Warriors. After a Michelle Staggs strike out Vicki Smith hit into a fielder's choice which eliminated Holtkamp. Smith moved to third as Lisa Lilley reached on an error by the first baseman.

An attempted double steal accounted for the Warriors' fourth and final run of the game as Lilley stole second and Smith scored. Lilley was thrown out trying to advance to third.

A controversial seventh inning quickly ended any chances of a Warrior comeback.

Kim Mushill got the inning started for the Warriors with a single. Leigh Ann Fanning and Julie Briggs each followed with a walk to load the bases with no outs.

THEN CAME the controversy. Julie Briggs was not officially on the lineup card. Although Coach Davis said he had reported her to the umpires they did not have her listed as entering the game.

After a twenty minute break in the action a decision was finally made. Briggs was ejected from the game and Monica Fanning who she had entered the game for was forced to bat. The Warriors followed with three straight outs to end all hopes of a come from behind rally.

"The only thing we can hope for now is a better showing in regionals," said Davis after his team's disappointing loss.

"We play Edwardsville on Tuesday, the day of the seeding meeting. If we can play well against them it would certainly help us out."

The Warriors' game with the Tigers is scheduled for 4 p.m. at Wilson Park.

Regional action is scheduled to begin May 19.

For Soccer

Moore signs with U of I Chicago

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Troy Moore, 18, a midfielder for Granite City High School's soccer team which qualified for state last November, has signed a letter of intent recently to attend the University of Illinois-Chicago this fall. Moore will attend the university on a soccer scholarship.

"They're rebuilding their soccer program right now," Moore said of U of I-Chicago. "They've got a new coach in Bill Ross and he seems to be very interested in making the program a successful one."

Moore continued by calling Ross "a very athletic coach who seems to be concerned about his athletes, a players' coach," he said.

Moore, who scored four goals for the Warriors last season from his midfield position, said he's an undecided major, but is leaning towards business and marketing.

"What I liked about it (the campus) is that it's all relatively new. It was built in 1965 and the playing field is the best I've ever played on," Moore said of the campus' new 10,000 seat stadium called "The Pavilion."

The Pavilion's excellent field conditions are not a well-kept secret. The Chicago Sting, the Windy City's professional outdoor team, often practices at The Pavilion.

Moore's high school coach, Gene Baker, called Moore's signing with

Troy Moore

Chicago a "a fine combination."

"I think both he and the university will benefit from the signing. The University of Chicago is getting a fine soccer player and Troy's attending a fine university," Baker said.

Moore, who has played soccer most of his life, said he was thankful that he's been able to grow up in Granite City, a community as soccer minded as it is.

"I'm really thankful that I've had the opportunity to play soccer at Granite City High School under Coach Baker. I'm also very thankful of my family who has helped me improve my soccer talents."

As for representing the University of Chicago on the soccer field, Moore said he considers playing college soccer a "very big challenge, especially considering his size." At 5-feet 3-inches, Moore says he will rely on his speed and quickness to try to outmaneuver and outmuscle his opponents.

Moore is the son of Kathy and Richard Moore of 3500 Franklin Ave.

Baker
soccer camp
registration

Granite City High School soccer coach Gene Baker has slated his annual soccer camps in June this year. And, as last year, the site of the camps will be the St. Elizabeth School soccer fields.

The Warrior coach will instruct four camps during a two-week period, a boys' and girls' camp. The beginning June 11 and a second pair of camps the following week of June 18.

During each week the girls' camp will begin at 8 a.m. and last until 11 a.m. The boys' camp will begin at 1 p.m. and last until 4 p.m. The camps, which are open to the first 100 who register, is for persons eight to 18 years.

The cost of the camp is $50 per camper and $80 for two campers in the same family. The $80 fee will also apply if campers elect to attend camps both the first and second weeks.

To register for the camps, persons may call (314) 355-2374.

'It's A Misconception'*Body building is not for men only

Saying body building does not diminish a woman's femininity, Sandy (Parks) Podraza will answer questions and instruct women interested in beginning the sport.

Podraza, a 1975 Granite City High School South graduate, recently finished third in a women's body building tournament held in Skokie.

"I hear from many women who they think body building makes women look masculine," Podraza said Friday. "It's just not so. Body building enhances a woman's shape, increases curves. Basically, it's a misconception," she said.

Admittedly, Podraza said women who compete in body building contests should be muscular, but during competition "you're all pumped up."

"Much of it is preparation just before competition. If people see me now, right this minute, I don't look the same as I would before competition."

"I do it (body building) because it makes me feel a lot healthier, a lot better about myself," Podraza said.

Another benefit, Podraza said, is that body building increases a person's metabolism which increases the number of calories burned and in turn enables people to eat more of the foods you desire without worry of gaining weight.

She is currently preparing herself for four tournaments — the Central States Body Building Tournament taking place this month, the Olympia Classic in June, the American Body Building Championships in October and the Olympia competition which will be held late in October — but is willing to help and instruct women interested in beginning a body building program.

Women wishing to contact Sandy Podraza may reach her at 921-5859.

Sports of all Sorts*Herold a good choice for SIUE's next A.D.

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

You remember that old saying, "The bigger they are, the harder they fall?"

Well, towering Dr. Zadia Herold, PhD, professor and chairman of the Health, Recreation and Physical Education department at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville dramatically illustrates the truth of that old bromide.

Herold, a little All-American basketball star at Murray State (Kentucky) in the late 1940's, joined the SIUE staff in August of 1966, or shortly after the present campus opened for classes.

Soon after that, he made two important decisions which have made him lean toward naming him now to the vacant athletic director's berth at SIUE. He has at that time a pair of coaches, Bob Guelder (soccer) and Roy Lee (baseball), who have produced brilliant pages in the Cougars' athletic history.

I must hasten to point out that Herold has no ambitions to take over the SIUE AD berth, but in researching for the column, I found out that Dr. Dean Dean, Ph.D., dean of the school's college of education about 1974 or thereabouts, offered the job to Herold.

Even so, I think the idea has much merit and Jim Buck would do well to kick the thought around.

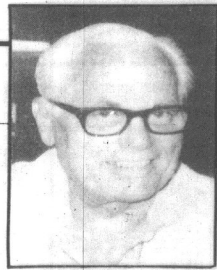

But, talking about the subject of the big guys falling hard, I cite you my experience battling Dr. Herold on the tennis court this past 10 or more years.

About six years ago, in mid-summer and with the temperature hovering around 105 in the shade, he and I are battling it out on Granite City's Wilson Park southwest court.

At this time, I am on a roll and have him down, when I hit — even if I say so myself — a great cross court return to Dr. Herold's right. He makes a desperate lunge at the ball and sprawls on his back right at the backstop fence. His head smacks the pavement of the court and I swear as I recall it, his noodle bobbles up and down out of control.

Since life was and had been struggling up of the point even at the time of the incident, I was dismayed when he failed to bounce up after he fell.

Hesitating just a split second, I ran toward him and, enroute at mid-court, I picked up a tennis ball can full of water. When I reached his side, he failed to answer my query as to his condition.

Consequently, I threw the full contents of the water can into his face. The effect was immediate and side-splittingly funny, as his eyes opened he came up yelling: "Serve the ball, Barnes, you haven't beaten me yet."

We both still laugh about it. Seriously, Herold was spawny by one of the greatest basketball locations in all American western Kentucky. He played his prep basketball at Heath, Ky., a neighbor to the place which gave the sport of basketball one of the Game's all-time greats, Jumping Joe Fulks.

Fulks, who has given credit for the first player to use the one-hand jump shot, starred three seasons for Murray State before entering service in the late '40s.

When Herold was slated to enter college, western Kentucky fans were in seventh heaven with the prospects of young star from Heath joining forces with Fulks.

It wasn't to be, though, as Fulks went on to write basketball history at Philadelphia.

Outdoors*Accuracy will improve your catch

By MIKE BRIGGS
for the Press-Record

Recently I have had a problem with the column, I found out that casting ability. In order to overcome this obstacle I have been practicing casting in my back yard.

As a result it occurred to me, to become an above average bass fisherman, especially with a spinner-bait, you must be able to cast accurately.

The reason is obvious. A bass is basically object oriented. This is especially true of the bass you are likely to catch with a spinnerbait. They rely on some object, a rock, brushpile, or a stump, to provide an ambush point. If you can't cast accurately enough to hit your target where you are supposed to, you simply are not going to catch as many fish as the guy who has practiced until he can cast accurately.

In my opinion, for the best accuracy and lure retrieve with a spinnerbait, the casting reel is the only way to go. There are a variety of casting reels available today, that are smaller and lighter yet still pack plenty of power as compared to reels of several years ago.

Another important selection is a good spinnerbait rod. This will help you develop the consistency required to cast accurately time after time.

In selecting a rod, I prefer a graphite or boron rod that is 3-foot, 6-inches long and has a medium tip action. I prefer this length because the rod is just shorter than myself, which gives me more control over lure accuracy and presentation.

The important thing in selecting a rod and reel is they feel comfortable for you to use. Ask the store manager if you can try them out before you make your selection.

Madison finishes third

O'FALLON — The Madison Trojans finished third out of 16 teams at the O'Fallon Relays held Thursday.

The 160-meter team of Jackie Walker, Delarion Young, Zemry Ransom and George Leonard claimed Madison's sole relay victory with a time of 3:38.3. In individual wins, Leonard finished first in the 100-meter dash with a 11.3 time and Reggie Young took first in the long jump with a mark of 18-feet 10-inches.

O'Fallon handily won the meet with 125 points, compared to second-place Jerseyville with 60 points. Madison finished third with 50, followed by Mascoutah with 34, Red Bud with 31, Civic Memorial with 29, Dupo with 28, Westlin with 22, Freeburg and Wood River with 18, Althoff with 15, Waterloo with 10, Roxana and Highland with 8, Lebanon with 6 and Triad with 4.

Shawn Brown added points to Madison's score by finishing second in the 100-meter dash at 11.5 and Young took second in the long jump with a 40-foot jump. Leroy Latham took fourth in the long jump with a 17-foot 6-inch mark.

God in his wisdom made you special parents, someone who I could depend, loyal parents who loved and always there with a helping hand. God I'd need parents like you, to comfort me when I felt blue, your special warmth and happy smile would make me feel that life was worth while. Provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to require the City to make any amendment or to prohibit it from unilaterally changing its policies as stated herein.

SECTION 29: Forfeiture of Franchise. In addition to all other rights and powers pertaining to the City by virtue of this franchise or otherwise, the City reserves the right to terminate and cancel this franchise and all rights and privileges of the Grantee hereunder in the event that the Grantee:

Such termination or cancellation shall be by ordinance to be adopted after notice to the Grantee by the City and shall in no way affect any of the City's rights under this franchise or under any provision of law. In the event that such termination and cancellation depends upon the finding of fact, the City shall have the right to call the Board or its representatives and shall be conclusive. Provided, however, that before this franchise may be terminated and cancelled under this section, the Grantee shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard before the Board of Corrections.

SECTION 30: Publication Costs. The Grantee shall assume the costs of the publication of this Ordinance as such publication is required by law. No person, firm, partnership or corporation shall, with intent to defraud a cable television operator, assist or instruct any other person in obtaining any cable television service.

No person, firm, partnership or corporation shall, with intent to defraud a cable television operator, sell or rent, or offer to sell or rent any instrument, apparatus, equipment for making or assisting any instrument, apparatus, equipment or device to any person with knowledge that the person to whom the item is sold or offered is to use it to make unauthorized use of cable television service.
